

Spring Conference A Success

More than 120 educators were treated to outstanding professional learning March 3rd, 4th and 5th in Macon. The first day consisted of a series of concurrent sessions co-sponsored by the Professional Standards Commission and the Georgia Department of Education. Cutting edge topics and issues were presented and the meeting rooms were packed. In most sessions there was standing room Fieldbook: Strategies For Success. Pam's address was Helping Learning Leaders Succeed In The 21st Century: Tools For The Professional Learning Specialist. She was definitely a big hit with conference attendees and more than 50 signed up onsite for Pam's March 5th presentation to The Academy. One participant wrote on her evaluation sheet that "The conference was well presented. It was a terrific learning experience. Pam Robbins was terrific ..." That says it all!

President Lynn Seay welcomes attendees to the 2004 Spring Conference in Macon.

President Lynn with conference keynote presenter, Pam Robbins.

Conference attendees during Pam Robbins presentation